

Lecturer or Assistant / Associate / Full Professor - ACADEMIC GASTROENTEROLOGIST
Department of Medicine

The Division of Gastroenterology, Sunnybrook Health Sciences Centre and the Department of Medicine, Faculty of Medicine, at the University of Toronto are seeking an academic gastroenterologist. The successful applicant must be eligible for a Full-time Clinical Academic appointment with an academic position description of Clinician in Quality and Innovation or Clinician Educator at the rank of Lecturer or Assistant, Associate or Full Professor at the University of Toronto. Expected start date is September 1, 2019 or shortly thereafter.

We are seeking a physician who will deliver and foster excellence in clinical care in all areas of gastroenterology, with a particular focus on gastrointestinal (GI) oncology. The candidate will also provide exceptional teaching in the undergraduate and postgraduate programs of the University of Toronto. The successful candidate will devote 50-60% of their time to clinical care, and will spend at least 40 hours per year in formal teaching outside of clinical care. The primary language of work will be in English.

The successful candidate must hold an MD degree; have or be eligible for certification from the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons of Canada in Gastroenterology; and have or be eligible for licensure to practice medicine from the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Ontario.

The successful candidate will also have demonstrated excellent clinical teaching abilities, which will be measured by the presence of a strong track record of excellence in student and resident education, formal training in teaching methodology, awards, leadership as a clinical educator, and other relevant experience. Quality improvement excellence will be assessed by the presence of dissemination of successful quality improvement practices, evidence of practice and/or equipment innovations, peer-reviewed publications, significant invited presentations, awards, accolades and other related accomplishments. Research excellence will be assessed by the presence of research grants, publications in leading, peer-reviewed journals, invited presentations at significant conferences, awards, accolades and other related accomplishments.

For appointment at the rank of Assistant Professor or higher, the candidate must hold either a graduate degree in education, or graduate training in quality improvement. In addition, the candidate must have at least one peer-reviewed publication as first author, or demonstration of other creative professional activity. If appointed at the rank of Lecturer, it is expected that the successful candidate will progress to the rank of Assistant Professor.

Estimated remuneration will in the range of $250,000 to 350,000 per year (fee-for-service estimate). The successful candidate will be eligible for membership in the Sunnybrook Department of Medicine Association through which clinical billings and benefits will be administered. The candidate will be able to participate in the department's group medical, dental and life insurance benefit plans.

Applications will be accepted until March 30, 2019, or until the position is successfully filled. Should you be interested in this opportunity, please forward your curriculum vitae, a one-page statement of interest, and the names and addresses of three referees to:
